Miss Showgirl 2005 Awarded

Local Boonah girl Sara Dieckmann was named Miss Showgirl 2005 by the Queensland Chamber of Agricultural Society (QCAS) at the Royal Queensland Show on Friday.

In a glittering presentation, 11 girls from across the state strutted their stuff and flaunted their personalities to compete for the prestigious title.

Miss Showgirl 2005 competition coordinator Lorraine Crothers said Miss Dieckmann received the title because of her outstanding personality and her commitment to her local Show society, her community and to agriculture.

"Miss Showgirl is about finding an ambassador for the Show movement, which is one of the biggest volunteer movements in Queensland," Mrs Crothers said.

"We are looking for someone to bring more youth to the Show society because they are the future of the Show."

Miss Dieckmann said she felt very honoured to be chosen as Miss Showgirl and looked forward to the opportunity to visit and promote the rural Shows throughout Queensland.

"I really want to make people aware of the rural Shows and the opportunities they represent for showcasing local talent and local industries," she said.

Miss Dieckmann will be at the Ekka till Wednesday participating in various events including the People's Day Grand Parade at 1.30pm on Wednesday 17 August.

The Royal Queensland Show runs till the 20 August at the RNA Showgrounds in Brisbane.

Ends.
